Is your on the corner? Then you're probably thinking seriously about Medicare.

And if you're feeling overwhelmed, that's understandable. There's a lot to consider, starting with whether to choose Original Medicare with or without a Medigap Supplement or to opt for a Medicare Advantage plan increasingly popular in recent years, giving enrollees a variety of benefits in a single, convenient package. Read on to learn some Medicare basics, and some of the finer points to consider before making your decision.

Medicare is a federal health insurance program for:

What is Medicare?

✓ People who are 65 or older

- People under 65 with certain disabilities
- ✓ People of all ages with End-Stage Renal Disease (permanent kidney failure requiring dialysis or a kidney transplant)
- Medicare consists of four parts:

Medical expenses, such as doctor Hospital expenses, such as inpatient care, skilled nursing, hospice care, and home healthcare services, preventive care, and durable medical equipment

Part D

Prescription drug coverage

Part B

visits, lab tests, ambulance

Original Medicare includes both Part A and Part B, but does not cover outpatient prescription drugs, or services such as dental, vision, or hearing. There is no limit on how much you have to pay in a calendar year for medical services.

What will you pay? As of 2024, here are some of the costs you could pay with Original Medicare:

• $1,632 deductible per year

PART B (MEDICAL) PART D (PRESCRIPTION) PART A (HOSPITAL)

• $0 per day (days 1–60)

- $408 per day (days 61–90) • $816 per each "lifetime

To avoid these penalties, it's important to enroll during your Initial Enrollment Period.

What is Medicare Supplement (Medigap)?

Medicare Supplement Insurance, also known as Medigap, is private health insurance that adds to Original Medicare (Parts A and B). It pays about 20% of the Medicare expenses that Original Medicare doesn't cover.

How does Medicare Advantage work?

Who qualifies for Medicare Advantage? Anyone who is enrolled in Original Medicare (Part A and Part B) can sign up for a Medicare Advantage (Part C) plan. What to consider before enrolling:

Some MA plans require you to use "in-network" doctors and facilities, or you'll be responsible for some or all of the cost. If a plan you're considering has a network, you'll
